University of Exeter Leaflet and Poster Policy V1.0

Aim

The purpose of this policy is to set out the university's requirements for the display and/or distribution of leaflets and posters on the Streatham and St Luke's Campuses.

The University is committed to the protection of academic freedom and freedom of speech within the law, alongside a duty of care to its students, staff and visitors. This freedom does not extend to promotion materials that would be in breach of the law, including those related to hate speech and counter-terrorism legislation. Material promoting extremist and illegal views or that incites extremist and illegal behaviour is explicitly prohibited.

This policy sets out the University's approach to fulfil this duty, and that the requirements of the policy are documented and transparent.

Definition

The definition of leaflets and posters for the purpose of this policy encompasses the below:

Any posters, leaflet, documents, visual displays, oral or electronic messages that are intended to be displayed and/or distributed either on-campus or at external events linked to the University.

- Promoting an event, group, institution, organisation, cause or product
- Providing further information in relation to an event, group, institution, organisation, cause or product
- Materials intended to influence the reader/viewer/listener

Scope

This policy applies to materials as described in the above definition being displayed or distributed by any person, group or organisation, whether linked to the University or not.

Out of Scope

Digital and print communications on behalf of the University are managed by Communications and Marketing Services. Prior to release of marketing material, all content will undergo an approval process to ensure it is accurate at the time of publication and compliant with current legislation. The promotion of private events held on University property (including residences) is not permitted, and is therefore not within the scope of the policy.
